Daniel.

Mr. A. G. Daniel died at his home in Paragould, Ark. on Nov. 23rd. at the age of 76 years. He was well known in this county having many relatives, among them Madames W. J. Romans, Arthur Currey and Carrie Davidson. He is survived by his wife Mrs. Mary D. Daniel and one sister Mrs. W. A. Yantis. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Getting Well.

J. W. the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton of Bryantsville has been having a hard time of it for the past week having contracted Diphtheria. An operation was necessary. Dr. Amos was at the bedside from Wednesday of last week until Tuesday of this week without leaving the house. The little fellow is doing fine now and we hope he will soon be entirely recovered. Miss Darnold has been his nurse.

Logan Ison Announces

Logan Ison announces his candidacy this week for the nomination for magistrate in the Bryantsville district, subject to the action of the democratic party.

Mr. Ison now holds the office to which he wishes to be reelected, and his acts are a matter of public record which the people may examine and judge him accordingly. He is a clever shold souled gentleman, and if re-elected, we are satisfied would give the satisfaction in the future that he has in the past.

Judge Hardin's Instructions To Grand Jury Along Entirely New Lines, And If Followed Are Calculated To Decrease The Prevalence Of Crime.

Judge Charles A. Hardin in his instructions to the grand jury after dweling briefly in general upon the usual matters in regard to which that body is accustomed to be instructed, took occasion to dwell at length upon the cause of crime and the remedy therefor.

Judge Hardin stated that statistics showed that the United States' criminal record, especially in so far as homicide is concerned, exceeded that of any country in the world, and that Kentucky ranked well up with any state in the Union as regards the number of homicides within her borders annually. And that the last decade shows an increase of homicides in Kentucky, for the previous decade and that crime was on the rise.

Judge Hardin stated that the finished criminal, the murderer and his kind, were but the natural outgrowth of lesser crimes, they were trained up to that point, their associations with criminals, their environments, their frequenting of gambling dens, blind tigers and other dens of vice, by a slow but sure process led them up to the point where they became the finished product, the most vicious of criminals, who would not hesitate to do any criminal act, murder included, and that the crime which is prevalent in, and which has blackened the fair name of the state is the natural outgrowth of these dens of iniquity.

He urged upon the grand jury that they seek out these evils if possible, and wherever found, take steps to put a stop to their operations, and thereby take the first steps toward abating the crimes with which the calenders of the courts are annually congested. He urged that the gamblers be sought out, brought to the bar of justice and their lairs broken up and put out of existence; that the blind tigers and their proprietors be sought with equal diligence and wherever found, stringent measures be taken for their abatement and punishment.

Judge Hardin has certainly struck the key note, the idea to seek out and eliminate the cause, and thereby make the effect impossible, is certainly a good one, and if his ideas along this line were taken up and followed out throughout the state, the gamblers were made to abandon their nefarious calling, and either made to seek an honest means of earning a livelihood or else leave the state; if the blind tigers were torn root and branch and their owners and promoters given the severe punishment they so richly deserve, then we would see a brighter and better Kentucky.

Judge Hardin, if he can get the cooperation of the citizens, for it is the citizens that compose our juries, will eventually bring these evil doers to a reckoning, and once before the bar of justice, they will be so strenuously dealt with, that they will be glad to either abandon their calling or accept the alternative.

The instructions have been made the subject of very favorable comment among the class of our citizens who deplore the existence of such evils, and the hope is freely expressed that His Honor will continue along the course he has chosen to pursue, and that his efforts will result in much good.

Will Put Out Full Ticket.

The Progressives of Garrard county, pursuant to a call of their chairman Mr. H. V. Bastin, held a Mass Meeting at the court house on Monday afternoon. Mr. John F. Holtzclaw was elected chairman of the meeting and Mr. R. F. Parsons secretary. It was unanimously decided to put out a full ticket in the field for county offices to be voted for at the November 1912 election.

Friends Want Mount to Run.

J. R. Mount, of Lancaster, who is well known in Lincoln and who is one of the original Wilson men of Kentucky, is being urged by many of his friends to make the race for the state senate from this district next year. Mr. Mount is a brother-in-law of Mr. H. J. McRoberts, of this city, and would have strong support in Lincoln. The Danville Messenger Tuesday said: J. R. Mount of Lancaster has always been a staunch supporter of Gov. Beckham, in fact has always worked and labored for him not only in Garrard but all over the state. A number of Mr. Mount's friends are anxious for him to enter the race for State Senate from this District, and the fact that he is such a warm supporter of Gov. Beckham will make for him many more friends. - Interior Journal.

Circuit Court.

The November term of the Garrard circuit court convened Monday morning with Judge Charles A. Hardin presiding. Judge E. V. Puryear was in attendance, but his commission not having arrived, Hon. George D. Florence acted in behalf of the Commonwealth on the first day, in conjunction with County Attorney Joe E. Rodinson. Mr. Rodinson's commission is expected to arrive during the week when he will be sworn in and enter upon his duties as Commonwealth's Attorney for the 13th judicial district, the position to which he was elected at the recent November election.

Sheriff Ballard was on hand with his deputies, Messrs. C. A. and B. F. Robinson and Tommie Ballard, while Clerk W. B. Mason was assisted by his deputy Miss Sue Shelby Mason.

The following gentlemen were selected to act as jurymen during the term:

No Place Like Home.

Lewis Landram's heart always warms to the people of his old home town, in fact that great big warm heart of Lewis goes out to all of his fellow men, but we believe that he would be glad to see a "yaller dog" from home. He is no respecter of persons, rich or poor, black and white, come in for mention in his good paper the Messenger whenever they chance to show their face in Danville. The following complimentary and flippant articles show just what Lancaster people Lewis observed on the streets of Danville, last week.

A PROMISING YOUNG PRINTER.

Mr. Len Miller, of the Lancaster Record, was in town Tuesday evening advertising for that good paper. While Mr. Miller is a young man, yet he is one of the best printers in this section, being absolutely reliable and always in his place. Mr. Miller has a bright future in the business.

ENTHUSIASTIC AUTOIST.

One of the most enthusiastic automobile in Central Kentucky is Mr. John E. Stormes, of Lancaster. Mr. Stormes is kept busy in his large drug store, but never misses an opportunity to steal away with his machine on a pretty day. He owns a large, five-passenger Chalmers, also a pretty little Hupmobile, and we believe gets more genuine pleasure from a machine than any owner we know. He frequently includes Danville in his "runs" and receives a hearty welcome by his many friends in this city.

REMARKABLE OLD DARKIE.

Bristow Bruce, an old colored man, whose home is in Lancaster brought a load of goods to Danville this week and told a reporter of The Messenger how he had conquered King Alcohol. Uncle Bristow is quite another poor fellow, being a slave to liquor. In fact he had touched it up heavily all his life, until about seven years ago. Being on a big high lonesome, he went home and told his wife he would quit then and there. Notwithstanding the awful thirst of a bracer—which only those who have experienced the torture can appreciate—he did quit and has never touched it since, although amply able to get it. This faithful old soul is respected by all who know him, and deserves high esteem in which he is held by the white people.

We are authorized to announce Logan Ison as a candidate for Magistrate in the second district of Garrard county, subject to the action of the democratic party.

We are authorized to announce the gist of this article may not be altogether pleasing to some of the residents of Lancaster, it may press upon their toes; however, if they will eliminate the self interest in the matter, look at it in the proper light, they will see very clearly that the thoughts conveyed herein are highly proper and should be carried out to the letter.

The alleys of a city or town are just as much thoroughfares as the streets proper, though to look at the alleys of Lancaster, a stranger would doubt the truth of this assertion. Nevertheless it is a fact, and as such thoroughfares they are entitled to some little attention upon the part of the municipality.

The city is just as much responsible for accidents which may occur to citizens in an alleyway as if that accident happened on one of the principal streets, and in view of this fact alone it behoves the city to keep these alleys open and safe for passersby at all times, free from obstructions and encumbrances and in such condition that either pedestrians or vehicles may pass with ease and safety at all times.

The alleys of the city of Lancaster are not by any means in such condition, upon the contrary in the case of some of them it is exceedingly difficult for vehicles to pass under the most favorable circumstances in broad open daylight, while after night, they are actually dangerous for pedestrians.

There are old wagons, buggies, broken machinery and every old clap trap imaginable, "hauling around in the alley" to get them out of the way, when in fact they are being placed in the way, obstructing the alleys, which are just as much thoroughfares as any of the other rights of way of the city.

The citizens of the town are primarily to blame for this, they are accustomed to considering "their alley" as their back yard and utilizing it as such, and in many cases, a very uncleanly back yard they make of it, not only their broken down wagons and other discarded and useless articles, but oftentimes it is made a dumping ground for waste paper and trash of all kinds. The city is secondarily responsible for this, for allowing it, they should see that the alleys are kept open, passable and clean, just the same as they see that their streets are kept in a cleanly condition and passable at all times.

We are of the opinion that there is a statute upon the city statute books which covers the keeping open of alleys and prohibiting the leaving of obstructions in them, as well as keeping them in a cleanly condition. If there is not such an ordinance, there surely should be such a one enacted at an early date. We would respectfully suggest that the city council give this matter a little attention, and now while we are giving so much attention to the streets, let the alleys also come in for some consideration. Our "street cleaning department" does not seem to be overly busy, what's the matter with letting him give these alleys ways some little care, at least, in so far as keeping those immediately adjoining the public square is concerned, in a cleanly condition.

If after getting the alleys cleaned up and the many obstructions removed, the people whose property adjoin them, as well as all others, be notified that they must not again obstruct them, must not throw garbage into them and in all senses shall treat them as they do the main streets, the matter of caring for them in the future will be reduced to the minimum. Everyone knows there is a penalty attached to blocking or throwing rubbish in the street and if it be known that the same law applies to the alleys, they will soon come in for the same care as the streets.

The meeting of the Progressives of the county at the court house Monday, last, pursuant to the call of the county chairman, indicates that the leaders of the new party hope to have a permanent organization. According to resolutions adopted, they are planning a fight for the county offices next year. "Reform" is the slogan of those who have left the old party and enlisted behind the bandanna flag.

The particular local political condition that seems to nauseate the new leaders is the alleged use of money and whiskey to influence elections in the county. The leaders have pledged the party against use of either in elections. This is the single plank proclaimed, thus far. No party nor right thinking individual will make with them an issue upon these questions.

When our new friends have well published their platform of no money and no whiskey, their organization may be embarrassed by the frequent deserters but that they may be assured that they will not be annoyed with any political camp followers.

We may far in advance of the battle for county offices, assure our new political opponents that the leaders must have a larger politic vision than a single idea and especially upon one which all parties agree. In fact, the use of money in election has long been made punishable by fine and imprisonment under the law. Have you no plan to suggest about the improvement of the road system of the county? Do your leaders see any way to meet the public demand and reduce the peoples taxes?

Mr. Anderson's candidacy will have the unanimous support of his home county of Boyle.

Mr. Anderson is a conservative business man and a clever gentleman, the kind of man that is needed in our legislative halls, and it selected to represent the district, we feel confident would perform his duties in a manner highly satisfactory to his constituents.

A new County High School has just completed at Paint Lick.

It is ranked as a first class high school with an approved four year course of study. Prof. G. L. Waterburg of Ontario Canada, Miss Pearl Cochran of Richmond, and Miss Lucretia Skinner of Buena Vista have been employed to teach at Paint Lick.

If the tax payers could see into the schools of Garrard county they would say as several have said recently, "money spent in schools is a good investment." It is a great pleasure to know that our schools and teacher rank foremost in the state.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this method of extending our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors who aided us so willingly and materially during the sickness and at the death of our beloved baby.

COUNTY COURT DAY.

As the election is over and the farmers as a general thing are not seeking office, the mule season is about over and comparatively little doing in that line, there was not much of consequence to attract the people to town on last Monday, county court day. However, because of it also beginning of circuit court a fair sized crowd gathered. There was the usual amount of jockeying and plug horse sales but none of consequence. There was an unusually small number of cattle at the yards, and what were there were indifferent in quality, however, most of them changed hands at the prevailing market prices.

Tobacco men were here from all the loose leaf markets, talking the merits of their respective houses, owing to the exceedingly dry weather, and the fact that the sales that have so far been made, have been top crops it is hard to tell just exactly what may be expected in the way of prices, and the farmers are tightfisted as to committing themselves as to where they will will take their crops.

Annual Inspection Of Garrard County Schools Shows Them To Rank High

AMONG THE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS OF THE STATE.

County Superintendent Jennie Higgins has just completed her annual inspection of the forty three white and fifteen colored schools of the county, and found them all to be in a flourishing condition, and to be giving entire satisfaction alike to pupils, patrons and teachers.

She found the attendance to be very much improved, which is probably due to a certain extent to the recently enacted "compulsory education law."

Good attendance is a source of great encouragement to the teachers who labor diligently for the cause, and it is very discouraging to them to have a poor per cent of the pupils in the district in attendance, and half of those only coming in a desultory manner, come one day and stay at home two.

Nearly all the schools observed Arbor Day and thirty or forty trees were set out at several places, besides rose bushes, vines and shrubbery.

Several teachers had box suppers and raised funds which they invested in libraries, window shades, maps, flags, and other necessary things for the school.

A Night school was taught by Miss Skinner at Hickman for the adults of the district who desired to advance educationally. This school was well attended and the sacrifice of the teacher was appreciated by the people she so willingly serves.

Handwork including weaving, crochet and needlework are taught at recess at several schools. The pupils are immensely interested and some have disposed of their work at liberal prices, thereby encouraging the spirit of independence and business. Manual training at one school is attracting wide attention, one could hardly believe such splendid work could be done by boys of the seventh and eighth grades.

Trustees are interested as never before. They send in the Trustees visiting reports each month showing how long they remained in the school, number of classes recited during their stay, condition of house and grounds, etc.

The state course of study as prepared by State Supervisor Coates is being used in most all schools, are graded and regular examinations held, thereby enabling pupils to pass from one school to another without having to go over already done.

GARRARD'S HISTORIC TREE.

Garrard county's sugar maple tree in the State arboretum claimed more sensibility than any other by reason of its antecedents. It is a wildling from a farm in Garrard county, where three governors of Kentucky lived, and under the forebears of the sturdy sapling played in their youth. The three are Robert P. Letcher, who served as chief executive from 1840 to 1844; William Owsley, who succeeded him; and W. O. Bradley, now United States Senator - Ky. State Journal.

BIG METAL SHINGLING BUSINESS.

The Cortright Metal Roofing Company, of Philadelphia, Pa., whose advertisements of Cortright Metal Shingles have been running regularly in the "Central Record" for nearly a year past, advise us that 1912 will show an immense volume of business in their line. It is gratifying to carry the advertising of so prosperous and successful a concern and to feel that the "Central Record" has had some part in creating such success. Any of our readers interested in roofing should write for literature and further particulars.

ELECTION OF COMMITTEES.

Since the election November 5 many inquiries have been made by Democrats as to when the reorganization of the party and the election of committees will take place, and in response to these inquiries Hon. R. H. Vansant, chairman of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees; and Mr. John W. Woods, secretary, have given to the press the following:

"We have been asked by a large number of Democrats in the State as to when the reorganization of the party and the election of committees will occur. The party law requires that the election be held on January 18, 1913. Before that time all the committees in the State and others who may desire will have a copy of the party laws. We hope that the county newspapers will, before that time, publish the law in full, or at least part of it that pertains to the election of the committee. This will be done about the first of January, 1913.

R. H. Vansant, Chairman Democratic State Central and Executive Committees.

John W. Woods, Secretary.

OBEY THE LAW RATHER THAN BLAME IT.

The county superintendent of schools is sending through the county notices to many people who are failing to observe the regulations of the compulsory school law, and are failing to send their children to school, and in many instances we predict she will be censured for taking such action. If the matter were optional with her, she should not be made the object of one word of adverse criticism: the "compulsory education law" is a good law, it was enacted by the General Assembly of Kentucky to protect the rising generation in their tender years, to give them an education, which they may not appreciate now, but will be thankful for when they reach maturity.

The county superintendent is in no wise responsible for the enactment of this law, but she is responsible for its enforcement, and if she fails to make every effort in her power to see that it is enforced she is unworthy of the office which she occupies.

If YOUR CHILDREN are not in school, are absent from other causes than physical disabilities, and you receive a notice from the superintendent of school in regard to the matter, the best thing you can do is to put your children in school and save yourself trouble, for it is sure to come; the next step will be to take you before the county Judge, who will surely give you a fine for your delinquency. It has been done in other counties and it will be done here.

Every school officer in the county from the superintendent down, district board, sub-trustee and even teachers are expected and required to assist in the carrying out of the letter of this law, and it is reasonable to expect that they will do it, so the most sensible thing you can do is to hold your censure, put the kiddies in school and keep them there.

THANKSGIVING, THE DAY YOU ARE CELEBRATING NOT A MODERN INNOVATION, DATES BACK TO BIBLE DAYS.

Moses in the XIV chapter of Deuteronomy, 13, 14 and 15th verses says, "Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days after thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine, and thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, and thou and thy son and thy daughter and thy maid servant and the Levite, and the stranger and the fatherless and the widow that are within thy gates", which seems to indicate that the celebration of "Thanksgiving day" is not confined to modern times, but that it was observed as far back at least as Moses day.

Wanted to Know.
Freddie—Freddie, haven't I told you mock at the peculiarity of others you may grow just like them?

Freddie—Say, ma, do you suppose I'm related to the elephant long enough?

I'd ever get so's I could pick up 100 pebbles over the fence with my nose?

THE REASON.

MUFFLED KNOCKS.

"I value your opinion so highly, old chum, that I'm going to ask you not to waste so much of it on me. Wait till I ask you for it."

"Yes, you've told me the story a dozen times, Flanger, but go ahead; there's a sympathetic quality in your voice that I like."

"Want to leave us, are you, Muff? Well, you'll be glad to know that your dropping out won't hurt our business a bit."

"I wish I could afford to buy as good chairs as you can, old scoundrel; I'd buy a hundred better quality than you do."

"Gregory, you bad boy, I've told you a dozen times not to watch your Uncle Casper when he pours his coffee out into his sweater!"

Welcome Change.

Mrs. Knott Meek—According to the time being, Henry, the loop is to replace the button on certain dress fabrics.

Knott Meek—Great!

Mrs. Knott Meek—Why are you so pleased?

Knott Meek—I am tired of buttoning up coats and I have always wanted to keep the loops!

THE REASON.

Hardy.

No mortal life can substitute, whose soul's yea killing time.

Heard in a Restaurant.

Dinner—I told you I wanted two fresh eggs on toast. Do you egg them fully browned.

Waiter—Yes, sir; fresh laid on the toast, sir.

His Method.

Gill—How do you accomplish your success with the ladies? Do you kiss them then kiss?

Gill—Yes, sir; but encourage them.

A Trade Grievance.

"Our advertising club has condemned the Wisconsin professor who says nose blowing should take the place of kissing."

"And why, pray?"

"For encouraging a 'just as good' substitute."—Judge.

Causes for Regret.

Lady—I don't like this picture so well as I did the last one you took of me.

Photographer—Ah, madam, I have not the artistic taste that I had when I was young; and, besides, my camera is getting old.

QUIET ENOUGH.

There Was A Man.

There was a man in our town Who used to go on foot, Until he saw pink elephants Emerging from his boots.

A Question.

The Critic—That picture entitled "Charity" is pretty fair for Churchmouse to have painted.

The Querist—Yes; wonder where he got the model of the $2 bill the woman is handing over."

In Suffrage Days.

Pretty Girl—Will you be entititled to a vote before long?

Handsome Friend—No; but I hope to have some one whose vote I can direct pretty soon.

Stop That Itch!

I will guarantee you to stop that itch in two seconds.

No remedy that I have ever seen for Eczema, Psoriasis, and all other diseases of the skin has given more thorough satisfaction than the

A New Face.

Mrs. Platt and her little son Tommy frequently went to St. John's church and the little boy had become familiar with the minister's face. One Sunday morning another minister was filling the pulpit. Tommy seemed rather ruffled. Finally he leaned over to his mother and in a very audible whisper said: "Mother, what's become of St. John?"

Flagged Train With Shirt.

Tearing his shirt from his back in Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston Raleigh N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head, back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition, but for bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for an stomach liver or kidney trouble, price 50 cents at R. E. McRoberts & Son.

Fine for Two.

"Did you ever tell that young man that late hours were bad for one?" asked father at the breakfast table. "Well, father," replied the wise daughter, "late hours may be bad for one, but they're all right for two."

Death of Youthful Japanese Emperor.

According to a Spanish writer on Japan, the most pathetic suicide recorded in the history of that country took place over eight centuries ago.

"In 181," writes Senor Gomez Carillo, "the nine-year-old Emperor Kotoku saw his troops defeated. The child disheveled his hair, wept copiously, and invoked the holy name of Buddha. When he had finished his nurse Niidono took him in her arms to the seashore. 'There is a lovely city beneath the bay,' she said, and then the waves covered the emperor and his nurse."

Burley Tobacco Growers Boost Your Own Brands

We, as you know, are using your choicest tobacco in the brands of Strater Bros. Branch, and you know that nobody grows better tobacco than you do. You know how we manufacture, so you know that these brands are perfection. Now we want you to help us sell these brands this year even better than our best previous years. The reasons you should so help are as follows:

You Are Part Owner

The fact that you grow the tobacco makes you part owner of all these brands. Every time that one sells you profit. Everybody that you sell to is an helper in these sales. Every brand that you buy for your own use helps make those profits better. All our interests—your interests and ours—are poised in these several tobaccos. It is logic that you should bend all of your efforts, however small, in the selling.

The United Power of 40,000 Buyers

40,000 men in a section wield an enormous buying influence. If all seek for these brands when they buy tobacco there results a gigantic sale. And big sales are the best advertising known.

To Dealers! Dealers throughout the United States know these famous tobaccos. They are Nation-wide sellers—popular brands. They are helping those dealers to sell. They are made from the pick of the famous crop of 1912. Enter one of these stores and you will see them. So are many other烟叶 companies. They are working for you.

Put them into your stock. See how they sell.

Hogwallow News.

Sim Flinders has been grunting around this week. The horse doctor says he has been eating too much hawg meat.

There is another probability on the political horizon, a young son having been born at the home of Atlas Peck Friday night.

Poke Eazley has returned from a prospecting tour through the Gander Creek woods, and reports a bountiful crop of leaves.

Miss Fruzie Allsop is in favor of votes for the ladies. Yam Sims says she already looks like a bunch of padded election returns.

With the approach of cold weather Tobe Moseley has put an overcoat on the scarecrow that has stood in his watermelon patch all summer.

Little Fidelity Flinders has been reading some riddles out of the almanac and will spring them on the Wild Onion school teacher when school begins.

Sim Flinders has swapped for a gray horse that he claims is more than seventeen hands tall. Sidney Hocks says Sim will have to build a two story stable.

Miss Rosy Moseley knocked on the window at Raz Barlow as he passed there the other evening, but he was busy thinking about something else and did not hear her.

Miss Gondola Henstep entertained a few friends this week in honor of one of her many birthdays. Copies of the Ladies' Birthday Almanac were handed around as souvenirs.

Raz Barlow was over at Tickville the other day and made a close examination of some window glass. He says the reason glass breaks so easily is that it stretched too tight.

It is to be hoped that the dirt-dobbers will not take the liberty that they did last winter by carrying mud into the church and building their nests on the ceiling. This should by all means be stopped.

Ellieck Hellwanger has a close escape from drowning in Gimlet creek Tuesday night, when he accidentally rode off the bridge. He was saved only on account of the fact that there was no water in the stream at that point.

Immediately upon receipt of the information that Roosevelt was shot, the horse doctor of the Calf Ribs section held himself in readiness for a call, but says he supposed some of the doctors nearer at hand attended to him all right.

Fit Smith says the more a person knows the more he has the headache, and for this reason he has stopped taking the Tickville Tidings. But Poke Eazley says he has been a constant reader of the Tidings for several years without a symptom.

After having read the annual crop report of the United States and Europe and finding there were several million bushels of corn raised last season, Jefferson Potlocks has decided that it will not be any need of his raising his usual two acres of corn the coming year.

Miss Hosteter Hocks, who has dabbled considerably in literature for the past several years, has several orders ahead for obituaries, and also for a recommendation for a hair tonic. She has become so apt at writing obituaries that she can sit down and write one without knowing anything about the past life of deceased.

ENDORSED AT HOME.

Such Proof As This Should Convince Any Lancaster Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so.

Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Lancaster adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

Frank Hibbard, Water St., Lancaster, Ky., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been such that I do not hesitate to advise their use. I had weak kidneys. Their action was irregular and often painful. My back pained me. It was then that I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They fixed me up in good shape. The pains left it and my kidneys became normal."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

August 21, 1912, received an answer in which the Asst. Atty. Genl. Charlie H. Morris, gave as his opinion that said fee of fifty cents for the seal was not collectible and cited a test case of Mason against Lee, in the Court of Appeals which he stated would decide the matter. Mr. Hampton again on the 13 day of November, 1912, wrote to the Attorney General in regard to the matter and received the following letter.

Office of Attorney General.

Frankfort, Ky. November 15, 1912.

J. W. Hamilton, Lancaster, Ky.

Dear Sir:—Yours of 13th, inst. has been handed to me for reply. The case to which I referred in my letter of August 21 1912, (Mason vs. Lee), has not yet been decided. However, since my letter to you, this department has held that the fifty cents on seal placed on Hunter's License is not collectible. I think you would be safe in returning the amounts collected for seal to the respective parties from whom they were collected.

Yours very truly,

Charles H. Morris,

Assistant Attorney General.

Mr. Hamilton, the County Clerk says that he has deposited in the Citizens National Bank to his credit as clerk the fifty cents thus collected for the seal and when the Court of Appeals finally decides, the matter he is then ready to pay the money to the State, or back to the parties as directed by the Court of Appeals. At this writing there has been 76 Hunting License issued.

PREPARES TO MOVE

Then Young Author Makes the Discovery That She Is Famous.

By MOLLY MCMASTER.

Prudence gazed wistfully about the small studio that had been her haven of dreams for the last two years. She had taken it on the strength of having sold a poem to one of the magazines, and her heart had been filled with hope and the foundation of success.

A tear trickled through her lashes and splashed down onto the keys of her typewriter. Spasmodic breath began to tear at the girl's slight frame, and her head went forward on her arms, and Prudence burst into an uncontrollable passion of weeping. Farewell to her hopes, farewell to the dear, delightful studio were embodied in her grief; and the horrible feeling of failure crowded it all.

One by one her manuscripts had been returned to her. They were far too poetic, too much a part of the dream world for the average reader to appreciate.

"Your characters are ethereal, not human," one editor had written. "Put them under the sprinkling can of human emotions and let them get spattered with mud. You will write a story then."

"But I do not see the mud." Prudence had bemoaned within herself, "nor did my father write about mud-spattered characters—yet he was successful!" she had argued in imagination with that editor.

"But your father was a man, and a man's life touches earth more frequently than does a woman's. Your poet father's pen was human."

So Prudence had struggled on with her ethereal heroes and heroines.

The meager amount left her by her successful but over-generous father had dwindled down. Prudence's slim pocketbook and shabby clothes testified to an ardent need of money.

"I dare not attempt to keep my studio for another year," she told herself, "the editors may be just as cruel as they have been." She smiled through her tears. "And I certainly will not marry Bobby, because he calls me a 'pipe dreamer.'"

Even so, Prudence did not decide to give up her studio without a struggle.

"Still," she sighed, "there is no use my having a studio if I am going into an office, and if I will be wearing stiff collars and shirtwaists." Prudence cast a regretful glance at her shabby, artistic brown frock, and at the same time smoothed back a tousled head of brown curls. "Yes, I will have to give it up. Studios would not be respectable if connected with a girl in shirtwaists and tight skirts. I will look about for half room."

And with the bravery that had kept her courage up through untold misery Prudence made arrangements to move the following Monday.

Had Prudence known the meaning of the word irony she would have considered the fact that a substantial check came to her from one of her stories on the Saturday before her departure as a bit of irony.

But, because to Prudence, irony, hypocrisy and slander held no part in the big scheme of existence she only rejoiced in her good fortune and forthwith spent a portion of the money on flowers.

"I want my studio to be beautiful on the last day." She choked back her tears while she arranged a great cluster of pink roses in her favorite rose jar.

During Sunday Prudence was half hysterical and half brave. She had not realized how terrible the parting with the dream of life was to be until she felt the evening hours of her last day drawing in.

She sank into the big cozy chair beside the red lamp and tried to feel that on the morrow she would be an office girl. A friend of her father's had secured Prudence a position as first reader on a magazine.

"And tomorrow evening I will go home to my horrid little half room with tired eyes from having read many bad manuscripts." Prudence smiled ruefully and shadows darkened her eyes.

The brass knocker on the door told her that a guest was without. "I wanted to be alone," she commented, as she went to the door.

The man who had knocked crept straight into the heart of Prudence. He was genial and happy and frank-looking.

"Are you Miss Prudence Lange?" he asked.

"Yes," said Prudence, and opened the door still wider. "Will you come in?"

"Thank you," James Henry said, and went within.

Prudence closed the door, and somehow the atmosphere was suddenly charged with electricity. She found her voice almost refusing to echo her mental question.

"I have good news for you," James Henry told her when they were both seated. He began without preamble: "Do you—but of course you do, remember sending a play called 'Stolen Idols' to Emery Hill?"

"Two long years ago," Prudence smiled wistfully. "I had no acknowledgement even," she added.

"During our South African tour," Henry James went on, as if he had known Prudence to know that Emery Hill had taken his entire company to South Africa. "I discovered your play among Mr. Hill's mail. I am Mr.

Hill's business manager, and when I had read your play I found something worth while in it."

Prudence managed to smile through the excitement that was now flaming in her cheeks and sparkling in her eyes.

"I am rather good at making over other writers' plots," he continued without concert, "and I took your play and ran your characters through the mud—just sufficient to make them earthly." James Henry laughed, and Prudence joined him.

"An editor once told me that my characters needed the sprinkling cart run over them," he told her. "You are evidently the driver."

"A mighty good one at that," began James Henry. "So don't faint—or anything—when I tell you that I have a sum that runs over the ten-thousand mark for you. I put your play on, and it has been running to crowded houses through South Africa. We have brought it home to try in New York. Do you mind?"

"Mind!"

Prudence did not faint, but she jumped up and took James Henry by both hands.

"If I knew you better," she cried, "I would dance you about the room. As it is I can only thank you from my heart."

James Henry laughed, because there was something in the voice of Prudence that warned him that tears were scarcely hidden, and he knew that if she cried he would not remember that he had known her a scant five minutes. As it was, the soft pressure of her fingers was tingling up his arm.

"We, of course, are collaborators?" Prudence stated, rather than questioned.

"As a manager I can not have my name flaming on all the billboards," said James Henry. "But since a collaborator is what you require—I want the other half. We will turn out some plays between us that will travel through all the stock companies in the country after they have had record runs on Broadway."

"Then I will cancel my order for the moving vans," Prudence laughed and caressed the studio with her eyes.

"I should have told you before," James Henry put in contritely, and for the first time noticed the shabbiness of her brown frock.

"No!" she cried swiftly, "your coming so unexpectedly has been wonderful—she broke off suddenly, and James Henry glared in the blushing that swept across the girl's cheeks.

"Quite too wonderful," he commented inwardly.

Funds to Save the Herons.

Following the publication of an account of a disaster which has recently befallen a great colony of herons which occupied a small island of about three acres in the marsh near Charles-ton, S. C., a public-spirited woman has contributed $100 toward the purchase of the island.

On the island from one thousand to three thousand herons of five different kinds—including the snowy egret, the rarest and most beautiful of all the heron tribe—had their homes and reared their young. A brief time ago the owner of the island, an Atlanta man, publicly wiped out the herony by having the bushes which covered the place cut away and the island planted in oats.

Today two or three hundred herons still breed in the few bushes that remain on the island, while it is believed that the greater number of the birds have established themselves on another island near by.

It All Depended.

Fair Elizabeth tripped blithely into the country postoffice.

"Now, I want to know," she demanded, with a tell-tale blush, as she handed the clerk a pink communication addressed to her lover, "how long it will be before I get an answer to this letter?"

"That depends," he answered. "If he's in jail they will let him write once a week or, maybe, once a month only. If he's dead he'll have to wait till he can earn the price of a stamp, and I have no data upon which to base an opinion of his earning capacities. If he's ill in bed he may not care to dictate his heart's sentiments to a cold, disinterested third party; and if it's smallpox they won't let him write at all; ditto if he's dead. Then, again, if he's got a new girl—

At which moment he realized that the fair Elizabeth had flown.

Our Furnace Symposium.

Banking the fire is a very simple process. It is easier to bank anything else we know of. We have been able to bank anything excepting a fire for several years. Place the ashes in the four sister and thus sprinkle them carefully over the coals. Three teacups for a small furnace, the kind that goes out every five minutes, and five teacups for one of the battleship variety. Close all of the drafts, or leave all of them open, as you choose, turn out the gas in the basement, lock the kitchen door, take your dose of Family Tea, wind the clock, put out the cat and go to bed. If these directions are followed faithfully you will in the morning find one of two conditions: The fire will be going or it will be out.—Boston Globe.

Marriage Today.

"But I can't afford to pay a duke."

"Now, father, the proposition will finance itself. Cards for an international wedding will bring fancy prices, and then there's the moving-picture rights."
